For a long period of time the building at Prinsengracht 717 was inhabited by a wealthy sugar trader. He initially lived in the 17th century rear house (achterhuis) which he expanded to the Prinsengracht in 1810 by building a new house in front of it (voorhuis).

Hotel Seven One Seven opened its doors to its first guests on May 8th 1997.

Overlooking the Prinsengracht canals, Hotel 717 is the first luxury boutique hotel of the Netherlands, delivering exquisite modern care in an atmosphere of historic delights. This monumental canal house has existed since the 17th Century and welcomed guests as a hotel for the past 25 years.

Why are the stairs so steep in Amsterdam? Since there was not much room to build horizontally in cities, the Dutch liked to develop vertically while using as little space as possible.
